Packaging

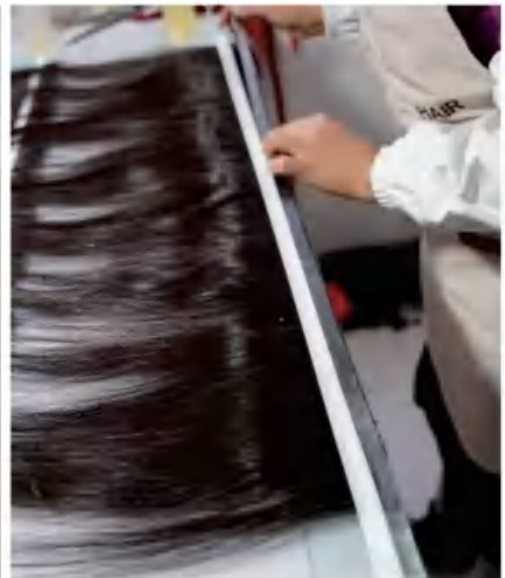

Each bundle of our unprocessed virgin human hair is acquired as an entire ponytail from a young girl. The hair has intact cuticles that protect the hair shaft, granting it a lifespan of 1-3 years, which is 150% more durable than similar products on the market.

Having undergone mild chemical-free processing procedures, the hair is inherently natural and in good health.

In Reddmoon hair, we only use the slow bleaching technique to ensure excellent hair texture. The hair is bleached very slowly, which ensures that the hair retains its strength, luster, and natural beauty for much longer than hair fried by harsher chemical processing.

All technicians are rigorously trained for years before they start making the final products. We've spent decades to hone our craft to meet the strict standards for high-end hair extensions market.
